Subject: FW: [EXT]Update on when the containers will be removed from Lowerline St.?

Hi Greg, just want to give you an update on the T&D. 3 of the 5 boxes had low Ra-226 levels so we are trying to profile into Waste Management in Lake Charles. This is the cheapest option however Waste Management requested the lab revise the report to include Total NORM pCi/g and has other concerns with the source being unknown. We haven't received this lab report yet so it will probably take another couple days upon receipt of that for WM to make a decision. Starting to look like WM acceptance may be a long shot.

We should have approval at WCS in Texas by tomorrow. Then we can arrange transportation and coordinate manifest signature to target a ship date of Wed or Thursday next week. If getting approval at WM keeps causing delays, we'll be better off shipping all five containers to WCS to get them off site sooner. Let me know if you want me to respond to Cheryn with the city or if you'll notify her of the tentative schedule.

Thanks
Evan

Hope you're having a good day.

Do we have a concrete timeline on when the containers will be removed from Lowerline St., yet?

I spoke to Rafa yesterday. He said that best case scenario we'd have the containers moved by the end of this week but likely they'd be moved by next week. I explained the sense of urgency. Is there an update available?

EMAIL FROM EXTERNAL SENDER

Good afternoon

Cheryn,

I am not sure about the schedule/when the containers will be removed.

The sooner the better to avoid more and more inquiries from the media and community.

I am not in the office today. Not sure if Greg has email access.

I am sure he will respond and task the removal of the containers ASAP.

Thanks,

Janetta Coats

And now we have a media inquiry asking when the containers will be removed?

Okay. See attached note from the Council office.

There is now pending litigation so we can't send a representative but we're being asked to attend a meeting.

EMAIL FROM EXTERNAL SENDER

I understand that we got the results in Friday. I haven't seen them but they have been sent for profile approval.

We should hear soon about the approval and the schedule.
